

Here in Hawaii, we suffer from a lack of competition having only one incumbent local exchange carrier. Our only ILEC is Verizon and if they are no longer forced to share their facilities with competitors, they will completely monopolize the market. I feel it is absolutely necessary that our local Hawaii Public Utilities Commission have a major say in determining whether there is sufficient local competition to warrant lifting the current network sharing requirements.